A striking and very well designed three storey modern mews house, constructed circa 2005 and quietly tucked away behind security gates in a small, private development, moments from Kentish Town Underground and Thameslink.

Offering 1466 square feet of flexibly arranged accommodation, the property is presented to a very high standard throughout. Levels of natural light are excellent, as most of the windows are floor to ceiling. There are four good double bedrooms, two with full ensuite amenities and two very good size receptions; on the first floor, the principal living area is open plan onto a well planned modern kitchen with a full range of appliances. On the top floor, the second reception opens directly onto a very substantial decked roof terrace, which leads via a spiral staircase into a very pleasant west-facing paved patio garden. The top floor also provides a fourth double bedroom, ideal as a study/office for those working from home. In addition to parking within the development, the property has the added benefit of an integral garage.
